of Ohio County, W. Va. HENRY WALLACE, Ch'n. M. L. HILL, Sect'y. sepi-tild

THE types yesterday made us to say that the delegates to the Senatorial Disrict Convention would be selected this v the County Convention to-day.

Ir is a striking illustration of the for earance which characterizes our Govvernment, that the man who did as much as any other to organize the irmed resistance to the national authoon in persistent and desperate array has been allowed, not only to return annuolested to private life and pursuits, at to assume a position in which he exert an important influence on e minds and character of the young en of Virginia, and of the entire outh. It became a college in 1812, and has since taken an important and influential position among the educa-tional institutions of that State. Its aculty has not been large. The number of its students has been limited. Its paratus are comparatively meager. It the honor of Robt. E. Lee is unquestionably on chivalry and gentility. He realizes the Southern idea of a hero. His influence can but be positive and large. It would be so were he to remain a strictly private citizen. But it will be particularly large and emphatically positive when he becomes the head of a well-known and popular institution where young men of a leading class are sent for a liberal education. His installation, as the President of Washington College, will attract a crowd of candidates from every State in the South. From the lips of the President-General they will become the foundation of social and civil character. His words and his manner will be carefully watched, their real meaning caught; and they will become part of their belief, their rule and model of conduct. But, not only this; they will receive interpretation and emphasis from the past history of the President.

Indeed, Lee's past conduct as a citizen of the Union, and the pernicious principles he exemplified by that conduct, cannot, fall to be all the time prominent before the susceptible minds of his students. as his influence goes, the declared duty of the new college President will be done thoroughly and well. His fellowcountrymen will be rejoiced if in some small way he can atone for his shifte in one of the most criminal and monstrou movements of history.

THE democrats of New Jersey have nominated Gen. Runyon as their can-didate for Governor. Mr. Dana, late Assistant Secretary of War, says that he is a militia hero, and was within ten miles of the battle of Bull Run. He has made a speech since his nomination, in which the following passage occurs:

"Though the war is closed, there is no such Union as we had, and there will never be a union of hearts and interests until democratic doctrines again prevail in the national councils. The management of this war was in the hands of those who knew only how to destroy; who never did anything good. History will give those men their true position."

Let Runyon labor on until Jame Buchanan is President again, and Howell Cobb, Jacob Thompson and Isaac Toucey are cabinet minister. Then we shall have democratic doctrines once more prevailing in the country, and the nation will be safe,

It is not to be wondered at that many people in the South should feel a deep interest in the fate of Jefferson Davis.

We were not surprised to see even the cession null and void, and promptly and unanimously eradicated every vestige and trace of slavery from the organic laws of the State-signing a petion to the President on behalf of Davis. So long as these appeals are made in a proper spirit the loyal people of the country are not disposed to say a word, for they recognize the sacred such impudent editorials as the following, which we take from the Canton, Mississippi, Mail, of August 26th, will

"In our last we published the petition of the ladies of Holly Springs, for the parole of Jefferson Davis. So, at last, this step of justice is being taken toward this great southern leader, and all honor to the ladies of Holly Springs for being the first to take it.

Now can the filliny, radical journals, who are disgracing, by their cowardly boast, their miglignant insults upon a brave but unfortunate people, the banner that has proved triumphant, no longer have it to say that no voice has been raised in the South in behalf of Davis; and the eagerness with which the noble women of this land will embrace any opportunity where there is a possibility of affording him any relief, will dispel the illusion that there exists ao current of sympathy for him in this his hour of adversity; will hurl back and give the lie to the insinuation that we are so base, so ignoble, so craven in soul, as to be indifferent in regard to the fate of him upon whose head the consequences of the "sins" of this people seem principally to fall.
Why should a traitor's doom be meted out to Davis alone? He was not the chief instigator of rebellion. In fact, he did not advocate immediate secession, and ought his blame to be greater than the rest for casting his lot to sink or swim, to live or die, with the State where he lived, and with the people that had so often and so highly honored him? In assuming the Executive Chair, his sins could not have been so grievous, his crime so prodigious, for he but obeyed the voice of the people, the roz populi vox Dei. He, now, of all, is languishing in prison, under an indictment for treason. On him chiefly falls the "waywardness" of a whole people. We cannot believe it is right, and we protest against this, as it seems to us, of the most popular men at the South.

Prospects of the Iron Trade.

(From the Pittsburgh Dispatch.)
We are glad to hear that the activity of the iron trade still continues. Man ufacturers are reluciant to make con tracts for future delivery, and the indi-cations are that a large consumption with high prices must rule in the fa-ture. The iron interests of the country promise to assume a greater magnitude than at any time herotofore. This re-sults from two causes: the large de-mand for many descriptions of articles of manufactured iron from interruption by reason of the war, and the difficulty now experienced in commanding the desired amount of skilled labor. A gentleman engaged in the business, who tracts for future delivery, and the indinow experienced in commanding the desired amount of skilled labor. A gentleman engaged in the business, who has just returned from Europe, and who, during his stay there, spent much of his time with iron manufacturers, says that the same scarcity of skilled workman exists in the trade there as here, and that a scale of wages has been established not likely soon, if ever, to come down. The migration of such men to this country, tempted by the higher prices paid here for such labor, is a source of much annoyance to the foreign manufacturers, and as a means of stopping it, agents, it is said, have been sent to this country, whose mission is to tempt the workers in iron back to Europe, as well for the advantage of their individual labor, as for deterring by the effect of their return others from going abroad.

The president having declared the nomination of candidates to be in order, the following names were submitted to the convention: N. Richardson, Capt. A. Wilson, John Brown, Thomas P. Shaleross, Jas. Paull, N. H. Garrison, George E. Jeffers, John H. Hall, John Brady, Sanuel McGellan.

Thos. P. Shalleross declined to be a candidate under any circumstances, and his name was consequently withdrawn. Considerable debate here sprung up as to the adoption of the two-thirds rule; but on putting the motion to the house the two-third rule was not adopted. All the delegation having cast their votes, the following result was announced by the Secretary.

principles he exemplified by that conduct, cannot full to be all the time prominent before the enseceptible minds of bits students. His history for the past five years, will by their imagination, be made a potent auxillary in his daily instruction, and that, too, in spite of any efforts he might be inclined to put forth to contradict that history. As he sected treacherously toward the General on whose staff he was at the breaking out of the rebellion, and traitorous-ly toward the General on whose staff he was at the breaking out of the rebellion, and traitorous-ly toward the General on whose staff he was at the breaking out of the rebellion, and traitorous-ly toward the General on whose staff he was at the breaking out of the rebellion and secession, so will he teach treachery, treason, rebellion and secession. These doctrines, under other and plausible names, will be the basis of his system of political ethics, no matter what textbooks he may use, no matter what its oral instructions may be.

In his letter of acceptance Lee truly observes: "It is the duty of eyery citizen in the present condition of the country to do all in his power to aid in the restoration of peace and harmony, and in no way to oppose the policy of the State or general Government directed to that object." Fifth—That we regard the amendment to the constitution of this State proposed at the recent session of the West Virginia Legislature as contrary to good policy, detrimental to the interests of this State, and at variance with the general scope and provisions of the constitution itself.

Sixth—That we regard the so-called Test Oath Law passed at the last session of the Legislature of West Virginia, as unconstitution and void. It is a dangerous innovation upon the rights of the people, an usurpation of authority which did not belong to the Legislature, at variance with republican institutions, and is unjust and tyrannical in its intendidates nominated by this Convention.

Mr. O. S. Long stated to the convention that he had a note from Mr. Lamb which he wished to read, but that before reading it was proper that, in an explanatory way, he should say that Mr. Lamb expressed himself to the committee as being thoroughly in union with the Democratic party in their conservation, as follows:

WHERLING, Sept. 9, 1865.

Messrs. Long and Richardson:

After which the following resolution, approbative of Mr. Lamb's course, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Democratic and conservative voters of Ohio county, are hereby tendered to Daniel Lamb, Esq., for his consistent and manipoposition to the partisan and extreme measures adopted by the Legislature of West Virginia at its last regular session.

You have named me as a probable nominee for the House of Delegates. I regret to say, I must decline. Circumstances imperatively require me to devote myself to the practice of my profession, and the completion of the code I have undertaken. It will therefore, be impossible for me to accept, if elected, the position of delegate. Our new State has been established on a basis that cannot be shaken, and I think, I am now entitled to an honorable discharge. In taking leave of the public service. In taking leave of the public service, permit me to claim one merit at least—that of being truly grateful for the partiality which has been shown me by the people of Ohio county. The Way to Look at It.

From the Concinnati Gazette.
Some of the Democratic conventions are assuming a virtue by resolving tha a national debt is a national curse. It is a heavy curse. So is the Democratic party that brought the debt upon the nation, the heaviest of all curses, and the sum of all. It is the Satan in our republican Eden, introducing nullification, secession, war pestilence, famine, devastation, debt, taxes, hate barbarism; in short, Democracy. For this curse, generation after generation must be ground by taxes to which our people before were strangers. For it extra toil and sweat must be added to the price of every man's daily bread. Let those who suffer the curse remember the cause, and abhor this origin of all the evil that has entered into the republic. s a heavy curse. So is the Democratic
